

WS 2: Wedding toast

Malvolio's wedding toast

At the end of the play a wedding feast is promised. But such a feast cannot start without a toast! Imagine Malvolio is attending the feast. Write a short wedding toast from Malvolio's perspective who has just been freed from the madhouse, having been the victim of a malicious prank.

Practice reading your toast out loud.

Checklist: Wedding toast

1. Congratulate the happy couple.
2. Tell a story.
3. Raise your glass for a toast.

Feste's wedding toast

At the end of the play a wedding feast is promised. But such a feast cannot start without a toast! Naturally, Feste is attending the feast. Write a short wedding toast from Feste's perspective and take into account Feste's role as a fool.

Practice reading your toast out loud.

Checklist: Wedding toast

1. Congratulate the happy couple.
2. Tell a story.
3. Raise your glass for a toast.

Orsino's wedding toast

At the end of the play a wedding feast is promised. But such a feast cannot start without a toast! Imagine how Orsino is trying to explain to his guests what happened. Write a short wedding toast from Orsino's perspective who has just proposed to Viola.

Practice reading your toast out loud.

Checklist: Wedding toast

1. Congratulate the happy couple.
2. Tell a story.
3. Raise your glass for a toast.

Viola's wedding toast

At the end of the play a wedding feast is promised. But such a feast cannot start without a toast! Imagine Viola is trying to explain to her guests what has happened. Write a short wedding toast from Viola's perspective who has just been reunited with her brother and revealed her secret.

Practice reading your toast out loud.

Checklist: Wedding toast

1. Congratulate the happy couple.
2. Tell a story.
3. Raise your glass for a toast.

